This walking tour is a trip through the ages around the not-to-be-missed historical sights in Nantes - duration : 2 hours

The Cathedral Saint-Pierre & Saint-Paul

Masterpiece of the flamboyant gothic architecture, impressive and moving, it shelters the tombstone of the last Duke of Brittany

The Dukes of Brittany Castle

One of the last medieval buildings, it used to stand on the banks of the Loire River. The Duchess-queen Anne de Bretagne was born here.

Walk into the medieval area

Around two prestigious building - the Cathedral and the Castle - was build a medieval town.

You will discover its charms through the narrow streets scattering around the Bouffay square and the Sainte-Croix church (Holly Cross).

Nantes in the 18th Century

"Nantes in the time of the islands" is what Feydeau Island proposes to those who take the time to stroll in its streets.

The discovery of this "vessel of stone" anchored in the heart of the city allows the visitor to come back into the past when Nantes was one of the most important starting points for the slaves expeditions.

The Passage Pommeraye

Unique of its kind, the Passage Pommeraye is an elegant 19th Century commercial gallery on three levels. Different architectural styles are to be found while walking it. Several movies were shoot there.

The 19th Century

Development of factories during the 19th Century increases the wealth of Nantes. Consequently, new blocks are created around the theatre Graslin: Crébillon street (well known for its nice boutiques), the Graslin square, and the beautiful La Cigale brasserie...
